HARVARD IMMIGRATION PROJECTS

TEACHER INTERVIEW

Date: ___________  School Code: _______________  RA code: _______________

As you know, we are conducting a study to better understand the adaptation of recently arrived (within the last 5 years) immigrant children into their new environments. We have talked to immigrant kids, their parents, and now we would like to get their teachers’ point of view. Essentially we want to know two things—1) What are some of the challenges you face, and how do you perceive the challenges your students face? & 2) Who are the teachers working with immigrant students? We appreciate you taking time from your busy day to share your thoughts with us. Your name will not appear on the interview.

1—How many students are you teaching this year? __________________________________________

2—Approximately how many of your students are recent immigrants? __________________________

3—Is the number of immigrant children similar to previous years (or is it higher or lower)?
   □ Same as other years   □ More than in the past   □ Less than in the past

4—From what country (or countries) are most of your immigrant students?

________________________________________________________________________
7—Do you think that this is similar to the challenges other teachers in your school face teaching immigrant students?

8—In your opinion, how is teaching recently arrived immigrant students different from teaching other students? [e.g., mainstream, minority, and second-generation students]

9—Now, let’s talk a little more broadly about students in general. How would you describe a good student?

10—How are the kids in your class generally doing in meeting your idea of what a good student is? [including non-immigrant kids]

11—Think about the immigrant kids in your classroom. How are they doing? [in meeting the expectation of what a good student is]
We know that there are many differences among students. Sometimes it is hard to make generalizations. However, we are interested in your impressions about how different types of students might vary from one another.

12—Have you noticed any differences between how immigrant girls are doing and how the immigrant boys are doing in school? [Please explain] ____________________________________________________________________________________________ ____________________________________________________________________________________________ ____________________________________________________________________________________________ ____________________________________________________________________________________________ ____________________________________________________________________________________________ ____________________________________________________________________________________________

Some students tell us that they want or hope to go to college and others have other plans.

15—What percentage of your students do you think will go to college?  [all students including non-immigrants]

16—What percentage of your immigrant students do you think will go to college?

17—What would you say are the most important things immigrant students should know in order to go to college?

18—Where should they get this information?

19—Do you think that immigrant students are aware of this information?  □ YES  □ NO Why or why not?

20—For kids who are not going to college, do you have any ideas about the kinds of things they are likely to be doing after they leave high school?

21—What would you say are the most important skills they need to know to get to that goal?
22—I am going to ask you some questions about program in your school for recently arrived immigrant children who are in the process of learning English [a.k.a. English language learners, ESL students…] Please tell me which of the programs listed below best describes the program (or programs) in your school?

- They are taught in their first language accompanied by ESL or ELD until they catch up with mainstream students [Transitional]
- They are taught in sheltered English (ESL/ELD) classrooms [Structured or Sheltered English Immersion]
- They are taught a substantial percentage of time in both English and in their native language with other children from the same language background to promote fluency in both [Maintenance Bilingual]
- They are taught a substantial percentage of time in both English and in their native language with approximately half of their peers are native English speakers and the other half are Spanish speakers [Two-Way-Bilingual or Dual Immersion]

- They are mainstreamed in regular English language classrooms

NOTE: Please have teachers read Q. #29

29—Some educators are concerned that English language learners with learning disabilities may not be referred for special needs assessments. In other cases, ELL students without learning disabilities may be incorrectly referred for special needs assessments. How likely do you think it would be for the following to occur?

31—How much interaction would you say immigrant students have with non-immigrant students during the course of the day?

_____________________________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________________________

_____________________________________________________________________________________

32—I am going to read off some statements that describe various levels of interaction.

Please select the statement that most accurately describes your school:

☑ Bilingual and monolingual English speaking students are integrated in all classes.

☑ Bilingual and monolingual English speaking students are only integrated during certain classes such as: _______________________________________________________________________

☑ Bilingual students are taught in separate classes and interact with the monolingual English speaking students only in their free time or recess or lunch (if they choose to do so).

If this option is selected, ask: How much interaction have you seen these students at these times?

☑ A lot          ☐ Occasionally          ☐ Little or none          ☐ Don’t Know
